

REAL WORLD HISTORY

Join other students from various DCPS and DC charter high schools for Real World History, a FREE, innovative history course that focuses on the nature of historical thinking as well as the “doing” of history.

During the first semester, students will focus on practicing the skills of historians as they study the Great Migration. In the second semester, students will practice their emerging skills through internships at a variety of museums, archives, and historic sites and the completion of a National History Day project.

TOP 3 REASONS TO ENROLL:

1 LEARN NEW SKILLS & KNOWLEDGE

Grow your skills as a student and leader. One RWH alum says, "I gained more skills in this class than I have in my entire four years of high school."

2 BUILD RELATIONSHIPS WITHIN YOUR COMMUNITY

Not only will you form bonds with your RWH classmates, but you'll build relationships with neighbors and elders as you practice your oral historian skills.

3 ACCESS TO NEW EXPERIENCES & OPPORTUNITIES

Do you know any other students who have their work archived in DC Public Libraries? Who have the chance to intern at a historic site or museum?

RWH provides opportunities for all of the above and more!

For more info, and to apply:

<https://inspiredteaching.org/youth/real-world-history>

Inspired Teaching