Every child deserves inspiring teachers and an engaging education. We've prepared more than 125 new teachers to help more than 10,000 DC students learn and thrive.

Inspired Teaching Residency

- STAYING POWER
  We prepare new teachers for careers in DC schools. After 5 years, 82% of our Fellows are still in the classroom - well over the national average of 50%.

- DIVERSITY
  Of the teachers we prepare, 40% are people of color, which is more than twice the national average for the US teaching workforce.

- AGENCY
  More than 80% take ownership for student learning, instead of attributing students’ ability to succeed primarily to external factors like parent engagement or income level.

- QUALITY
  CLASS (TM) is a nationally validated teacher observation tool that predicts positive academic and social outcomes for students. Compared to a UVA study of national average scores, recent Inspired Teaching Fellows' scores show that:
  - 81% are on par or above in Instructional Support
  - 71% are on par or above in Classroom Organization
  - 92% are on par or above in Emotional Support

- LEADERSHIP
  82% of our lead teachers report that our Fellows are ready to improve school community and culture. 76% confirm our Fellows are ready to collaborate with colleagues on curriculum, lesson planning, data analysis, and more.

"Inspired Teaching provides a fantastic amount of support during the grueling first year of teaching. They provided me with a perspective and insight I'd be hard pressed to find anywhere else... I think the program touches on some profound truths about children, learning, and society in a humble and very deep way."

Inspired Teaching Fellows are 100% intellectually, emotionally, and physically engaged in their preparation - modeling how we want them to engage their students.

To learn more about our unique approach, visit inspiredteaching.org/residency